

BLANCHE DUNKEL GIVES COMPLETE STORY OF CRIME

Claims Former Dancer Killed Ervin Lang For $500

Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—In New York's Chinatown, police tonight sought Mrs. Evelyn Smith, former dancer, as the "torture" slayer of Ervin Lang, after Assistant Prosecutor Irwin Glorfeld said a complete story of the gruesome crime was told him by Mrs. Blanche Dunkel.

Mrs. Dunkel, Lang's mother-in-law, who authorities believe was moved to procure his death out of jealousy over his attentions to a younger woman, told him, Glorfeld said, that the dancer, unnamed, slew the "swamp slayer" victim for a promised $500.

With Mrs. Smith was believed to be Harry Jung, Chinese laundry owner, but Mrs. Dunkel insisted he had no part in the actual killing. Police said Jung and Mrs. Smith were together at the time of the killing, she said.

He knew all about it and agreed to get a knife and gun and furnish a car to dispose of the body, but that's as far as he would go," she said. The story of how Lang was lured to his death, Dunkel said, was told her by the dancer's apartment.

Evelyn had administered ether until Lang became limp and had kept the body in a closet overnight because there was a party in progress in the building.

The dancer, according to the statements made public by Glorfeld, had changed the name from "Blanche" to "Evelyn" and was known to the drug and the killer had been described by the body slayer.

"Then she strapped it in a blanket and put the legs in a small trunk," Glorfeld said, "and the dancer's story was told."

Mrs. Dunkel told her, the woman's statement contained, that the trunk was within a fifteen mile radius of the Hammond, Ind., swamp where the body was found.

Though Mrs. Dunkel said after her first statement to authorities she felt "better" now that it is all over with, authorities said there were still some discrepancies. They said they were not fully satisfied that her tale was the whole story.

Mrs. Dunkel said she believed a man named "Sam" had been involved in the killing, perhaps two.

They also considered a request for San Francisco authorities to search in the Chinatown there for the missing couple.

Mrs. Dunkel maintained in her statement to authorities that she had procured the killing because "Lang" was around with other women too soon after her daughter's death." But her relatives told police, they said, that the true times marked grand mother of 18 was infatuated with her son-in-law who continued to live at her home after his wife's death last December.

Dope dens, long headquarters, the whole official-Chinese halfworld were centered by squads seeking the completion of the solution of the torture murder.

Frank Moss, unofficial mayor of Chicago's Chinatown called his henchmen into the hunt and telegraphed influential friends in New York to aid.

Three Chinese, or two Chinese and a Filipino also were wanted for questioning, police Capt. Patrick O'Connell said.

It was presumed they were believed by authorities to be members of a "kiss and romp" gang which aided the principal slayers.

DEPOSITORS DIVIDEND

Centerville, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Payments of 12 and 12 per cent respectively to depositors of closed state banks at Blueford and Bonine, Ill., were announced here today by state auditor Edward J. Barrett.

The $1,909 payment to depositors of the Bonine State bank brought to 67 per cent the amount they have received.

Payments in both instances will be made within the next few days, it was said.

Central Figures in Murder Cases Meet in Corridor

Detroit, July 12.—(AP)—The central figures in two sensational Detroit murders met in the corridor of the county jail today.

William Lee Ferris, enroute to court for arraignment on a charge of murdering Howard Carter Dickinson, New York lawyer, encountered Merion Ward Goodrich, the trap drummer who confessed he killed 11-year-old Lillian Gallagher.

Ferris, said jail attaches, spoke profusely to the bewildered appearing Goodrich and asked, "How could you be so low?"

Goodrich, head down, passed him without replying.

HUEY LONG MAY SOON BE RULER OF NEW ORLEANS

Mayor T. S. Walsley Only Official Re- maining

By Sam S. Farrington
Associated Press Staff Writer
New Orleans, July 12.—(AP)—Leaving their chief, Mayor T. S. Walsley, standing virtually alone, the "old regular" political ring of New Orleans ran up the white flag of truce today and Senator Huey P. Long prepared to take over the city government.

Annexation of the barefooted house city administration by Senator Long's powerful dictatorship appeared only a matter of time.

But one obstacle stood in the way of complete subjugation of the city to Long's political rule—the mayor himself.

Facing his desperate followers in a secret caucus, Walsley bluntly told the gathering, the majority of whom already had swung to Long, that he was "very even" even if compelled to stand aside.

Details of the city's "surrender" remained to be worked out. A conference for that purpose was called by two senators, Long and a committee of nine representing the majority faction of the "old regular" organization that abandoned the mayor.

Anxious to become established in the long ranks after months of fierce scrapping with his state administration, the desecrating "old regular" sought an immediate audience with the "dictator."

Long, riding the crest of another political victory, was in no haste to complete his "conquest" of the city. He informed the committeemen he would have to discuss their action with his own followers and would receive them later.

In some quarters it was reported the senator intended to demand Walsley's resignation before negotiating peace with the "old regulars."

Chance Arrival Of Two Officers Frustrates Plot

Five Armed Men Terrorizing Farm Residents; One Is Killed

St. Louis, July 12.—(AP)—The chance arrival of a sheriff and his deputy today was believed to have frustrated an extortion plot that ended in the death of one of a gang of five armed men who terrorized residents of a farm 18 miles northwest of St. Charles last night.

Police said the dead man, about 22 years old, apparently had been killed by shots fired by his companions at Sheriff Charles P. Borman and his chief deputy, Joe Borman, who had driven to the farm in search of a negro wanted on a disturbance charge.

The slain youth, wounded in the chest and groin, was found by the officers when the other members of the gang fled. He died without revealing his name.

Vito Ventimiglia, tenant on the farm and one of four persons held captive by the band, said the men forced him to call Tony Pinazzo, owner, to come to the farm with $500.

Pinazzo and his son answered the call but did not bring the money.

While the men were threatening the Pinazzos and Mr. and Mrs. Ventimiglia, the sheriff's car drove into the yard.

Police arrested five suspects during the day for questioning.

FINAL CHAPTER IS WRITTEN IN DREYFUS CASE

Man Who Spent Four Years On Devil's Isl- and Dies Friday

By Richard G. Massock
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Paris, July 12.—(AP)—Death tonight wrote the final chapter in the famed, fantastic "Dreyfus case."

Though nightmares of the four tortured years he spent on Devil's Island for alleged treason to France harried him in his last months, Lieutenant Colonel Alfred Dreyfus died peacefully, members of his family about him. He was 75 years old.

The bitter, world-wide controversy that Dreyfus' imprisonment stirred at the turn of the century was in sharp contrast with the almost serene seclusion of his latter years.

Convicted of selling France's military secrets to Germany and held captive on Devil's Island until the storm of protest forced the French president to pardon him, he lived through three tense periods of Franco-German relations—the first, the time of his own case at the turn of the century, the second, the world war in which he served for France, the third, the present dispute over the Reich's rearmament.

Dreyfus' family, Mme. Dreyfus and his son and daughter, Pierre and Jeanne, said all it could do to avoid reviving bitter memories of forty years ago, but they remained indelible in his mind to the last.

A year ago friends disclosed that nightmares of his imprisonment still often woke him from his sleep though it had been 35 years since he was pardoned.

A young Jewish captain in the French army who served on the general staff, Dreyfus, in 1894, was convicted in secret court martial of selling military secrets to Germany. Four years later such was the commotion his alleged "framing" created he was brought back from Devil's Island and tried again. Again he was convicted, to the world's astonishment, and sentenced that time to 10 years imprisonment. The president of France pardoned him.

In vetoing the bill Gov. Horner said: "It will be without my aid if our state becomes the pioneer in legalizing public and commercialized gambling such as is proposed in this bill. It is a hazardous experiment for a state to legalize a business which is now illegal everywhere in the country."

At Springfield, some politicians expressed the opinion that the governor's action might cost him support of the powerful democratic faction headed by the mayor and his supporters.

Handbook establishments have continued operation but under more restricted conditions since authorities began closing the more notorious places several months ago about the time when the legislature began serious consideration of the bill.

More Than Two Million Chinese Face Starvation

Stricken People Literally Clinging To Tree Trunks In Flooded Area

By J. E. Graham
Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press
Yenchow, Hunan Province, China, (Saturday)—July 13.—More than 2,000,000 Chinese seeking existence around the shores of Tungting Lake today face death from disease and famine as flood—China's latest disaster—scourges the nation.

These stricken people are literally clinging to tree trunks or knolls which the rushing waters have not yet submerged. They are eye-witnesses to the destruction of their homes, their crops, their very kinsmen as Tungting Lake roils over miles and miles of the surrounding hinterland.

Today a tropical sun intensifies their sufferings.

The shimmering Tungting is definitely reclaiming its ancient domain. Centuries ago the inhabitants of this region were driven from the lake. Having penetrated the rich alluvial deposits brought down from Hunan, Kweichow and Szechuan provinces, these pioneers, throughout succeeding decades, threw up dikes, until the lake became a fragment of its former self.

The progenitors of today's unfortunate increasingly expanded the fertile land, as the lake receded, until the section won the name of "Granary of Hunan."

FAVORS UNIFICATION OF RAIL TERMINALS

Washington, July 12.—(AP)—Unification of railroad terminal facilities, at an estimated minimum annual saving of $56,000,000, was recommended today to the railroad coordinating committee by Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation coordinator.

Based on surveys made by the railroads themselves of more than 5,000 terminals in various cities and areas throughout the country, the report termed the present unit operation "obsolete." It added that unification and coordination of terminals and facilities is practical and would result in improved service.

Great Britain Tackles Job Of Keeping Peace in Africa With Much "Better Heart"

DIES

By Charles P. Nutter
Associated Press Foreign Staff
London, July 12.—(AP)—Britain tackled the job of keeping the peace in Africa with better heart tonight, convinced Sir Samuel Hoare's speech before the house of commons yesterday had eased tension in Rome and Paris.

A slightly strained atmosphere in both capitals due to what the British said was misunderstanding of their past efforts had hampered the work of this nation's diplomats.

Today, however, an air of modified brightness was obvious in Whitehall as the foreign secretary's reception given the foreign secretary's moderate address reviewing recent developments in British foreign relations and devoting special attention to the Italo-Ethiopian situation.

Joseph A. G. Avenol, secretary-general of the League of Nations—to which Sir Samuel pledged Britain's continued loyalty—made several official calls here today, hunching with and conferring with Anthony Eden, secretary for league affairs, before leaving for Geneva to confer with the Ethiopian representative.

Official circles and Avenol himself were silent as to the result of his conference, but it was generally believed he succeeded in cementing French and Italian understanding of Britain's interest in the East African crisis.

In his speech yesterday, Sir Samuel made these major points:

1. Britain understands Italy's need for expansion but questions her justification for war.
2. She will continue efforts to keep peace, raising any "reasonable" change which may offer itself.
3. She is open to any offer of co-operation—whether in general or on specific problems Sir Samuel did not specify—from the United States.
4. She hopes Reichswehr Adolf Hitler will give the cause of peace another push forward by concluding eastern and Danubian pacts, thus paving the way for an air pact in western Europe.
5. She stands by the principle of tripartite collaboration worked out at the recent Stresa conference, maintaining her friendship with Italy and France and puts her faith still in the League of Nations.
6. She insists upon the principle of the open door in China and denies Japan's special interests there.

That the commons approved of Sir Samuel's policies was indicated when the labor party's motion to reduce foreign office appropriations was defeated 256 to 40.

Claim Kelly And Horner Are Near Political Rift

Veto Of Chicago Mayor's Handbook Bill Causes Speculation

Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—Speculation developed tonight as to whether the state's two principal democratic office holders were on the verge of a rift following Gov. Henry Horner's veto of the handbook license bill.

The measure was advocated by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago who told the legislature that the legislation of race track betting by licensing establishments to handle wagers would provide a source of revenue for the city and enable authorities to control the gambling losses more easily.

In vetoing the bill Gov. Horner said: "It will be without my aid if our state becomes the pioneer in legalizing public and commercialized gambling such as is proposed in this bill. It is a hazardous experiment for a state to legalize a business which is now illegal everywhere in the country."

At Springfield, some politicians expressed the opinion that the governor's action might cost him support of the powerful democratic faction headed by the mayor and his supporters.

Handbook establishments have continued operation but under more restricted conditions since authorities began closing the more notorious places several months ago about the time when the legislature began serious consideration of the bill.

Says Mussolini Makes Dillinger Look Like Piker

Father Dr. John A. O'Brien Asks Roosevelt To Make Protest

Urbana, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. John A. O'Brien, director of the Catholic Foundation of the University of Illinois, declared tonight "John Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson were pikers compared with Mussolini" in his present Ethiopian venture.

Father O'Brien, who joined with other members of the University faculty in requesting President Roosevelt to protest Italian activities in Africa, referred to Benito Mussolini as "the arch murderer of the race, who would ignore all of the peace-making progress since the world war and contend the slaughtering of man is the only way to end disputes."

Professor A. H. Lybber, historian, and E. L. Bogart, head of the economics department, signed the message to the president. Prof. Lybber declared that success for the Italian agitation in the projected African campaign would lead to further attempted expansion—possibly at the expense of Austria and Yugoslavia.

He termed the Italian movements "a most flagrant violation of the most solemn international agreements"—the Kellogg pact.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Joliet, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Charles Liberty, 18, of Spencer, Ill., was killed today when the automobile in which he was riding stalled on a railroad crossing and was struck by a Wabash train. A companion, George Leavitt, 22, was seriously injured.

CONGRATULATE HORNER

Springfield, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Governor Horner today received messages of congratulation as a result of his veto message on the Chicago handbook licensing bill.

Alexander Wilson, administrative assistant, said the governor's office was deluged with telegrams and long distance telephone calls, both from Chicago and downstate Illinois.

BUSINESS MEN ATTACK F. D. R. TAX PROGRAM

Key Portions Called Socialistic And "Unsound"

By Clarence M. Wright
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, July 12.—(AP)—A barrage of organized protests from business and industry today smashed down upon the president's tax program.

Opponents implied that they believed it socialistic and unbalanced, that key portions of it were "unsound" and should be abandoned.

Among the critics appearing before the house ways and means committee today were Robert L. Lund, representing the National Association of Manufacturers, and George B. Chandler, secretary of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

Arrangements were made, too, to continue the fight tomorrow when representatives of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will tell the committee why they feel, as already announced, that the plan is destructive, confiscatory and a "perversion" of the federal taxing power.

The chamber, which has drawn sharp replies from President Roosevelt when it expressed opposition to other phases of his program brought forth a reaction of its anti-tax blast, issued yesterday. Asked at a press conference about it, Mr. Roosevelt replied only that the action speaks for itself.

Lund's testimony followed a house session started by Chandler when he referred to the "present orgy of spending" to "wastefulness and untimeliness" to congress being a "rubber stamp" to "fostering hostility to our constitution and hatred of the supreme court." And he started more trouble when he exclaimed:

"This is not re-distribution of wealth. It is re-distribution of poverty. Society is not leveled up by such abrupt and artificial processes. It is only leveled down. Leveling up is a long process of the generations."

Gerald Thompson Will Go On Trial For Murder Soon

Alleged Slayer Of Girl Ex- changes Glances With Sweetheart

Peoria, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Gerald Thompson, 25, indicted for the attack of murder of pretty Mildred Hallmark, exchanged glances with his sweetheart across a court room today as his attorney sought vainly to obtain a delay in his trial.

The attorney, Ren Thurman, argued that public opinion was still bitter against Thompson and that a fair trial would be impossible on July 27, the date set by Circuit Judge Joseph R. Daily after Thompson pleaded innocent to the indictment.

"I doubt if sentiment would be changed by September," Judge Daily said, in ordering the trial held as scheduled.

Thompson's sweetheart, Miss Lola Hughes, and his mother, Mrs. Charles Whiteside, sat side by side in the court room, some distance from the defendant. The former had been in jail, forced to remain in her cell in jail, and since her arrest has seen him only during brief hearings in court.

The young toolmaker, who allegedly confessed attacking Miss Hallmark the night before her body was found in Springfield cemetery, is still held in solitary confinement. Only his attorney and immediate relatives have been allowed to visit him.

Mayor Seizes Water Records

Carbondale, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Led by Mayor Leo Dwyer, city police today seized fixtures, records and money of the municipal water system, loaded them into trucks, and hauled them to the city hall.

The drastic action followed refusal of C. S. Gill, superintendent of the water system, to surrender possession of his office in conformity with an ordinance passed Tuesday night by the city council.

After a quarrel between the council and the city water commission the council passed the ordinance which abolished the commission.

J. E. Mitchell, local banker and secretary of the water commission for the last half of this year, asserted the council desires control of the water works for what political patronage it can make out of it.

Farmer is Killed by Lightning Near Mascoutah, Ill.

East St. Louis, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Edward Lanter, 52, farmer, was struck and killed by a lightning bolt today as he walked through an open field near his home, four miles south of Mascoutah, Ill., during a thunderstorm.

Lightning also struck and ignited a 10,000-gallon gasoline tank at Mascoutah, two miles south of here, but the blaze was extinguished before it had caused extensive damage.

State electricity during the storm temporarily disrupted 13 long distance telephone lines leading to Mascoutah and Illinois towns, but no community was completely isolated. More than an inch of rain fell at St. Louis, Mo.

RELIEF COSTS IN ILLINOIS TO BE LOWER

Drop In Expenditures Is Predicted By Commission

By Harry L. Thomas
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—An immediate drop in expenditures was predicted today by the Illinois Emergency relief commission when it adopted a resolution providing for a 10 per cent reduction in administrative expenditures. The resolution, approved at the first meeting to draw a program in recent weeks, provided that administrative costs after July 15 should be 10 per cent below those of June, a savings of $150,000.

Further reduction through co-operation with the works progress administration was forecast in adoption of a recommendation that the commission terminate all work relief projects as soon as possible, depending on the works progress activities to care for the estimated 264,268 families eligible for employment under the new of the latter organization.

A resolution adopted after a statement from chairman John C. Martin that the commission's policy should be to "discourage people from staying on relief," ordered Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, to present by August 1 a survey showing the number of rural families dependent on work relief and to what extent they would be affected by a total discontinuance of work relief.

Guardsmen Halt Street Fighting In Tacoma, Wn.

1,000 Strike Sympathizers Hold Wild Demonstration In Streets

Tacoma, Wash., July 12.—(AP)—A riotous demonstration by nearly 1,000 lumber strike sympathizers, which developed into bitter street fighting with national guardsmen, was dispersed tonight after militiamen had used tear gas and staves to halt the four-hour disorder.

A national guardsman truck was burned, at least 20 persons arrested, and minor hurts inflicted upon scores of others during the disturbance which broke out this afternoon.

The demonstrators, who had assembled about 3:30 p. m. in an attempt to push by national guardsmen and parade across the 11th street bridge into the lumber district, were finally dispersed, eight blocks away, by a hail through the main business district.

At the height of the disorder, tear gas and noxious gas bombs were hurled back and forth and 40 guardsmen advanced with bare bayonets, slowly pushing back the crowd. Shouts of "No more strikes" and "No more strikes" were heard during the demonstration.

The federal building and nearby office structures were enveloped for a time in the gas clouds which soon stopped the fighting along a four-block area.

The guard truck caught fire during the melee and burned before flames were extinguished. Conflicting reports said the truck became ignited by a premature shot from a tear gas gun and that it had been ignited by the demonstrators.

Two hours after the demonstration began, the force of guardsmen, who have been to protect workers in the lumber strike, was increased to about 100 men. The troops formed in double lines and cleared the streets.

NEW FIREWORKS LAW

Springfield, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Authority for the state to regulate the manufacture, storage, sale and use of fireworks was given today by Governor Horner permitted a bill by Senator L. C. Sieber, Gridley democrat, to become a law without his signature.

The state regulations in most cases are similar to ordinances adopted by many cities.

The governor vetoed a similar bill in 1933 because it did not vest regulatory powers in municipalities.

Winchester residents in this city yesterday included Betty Smith.

WALEY KIDNAP CASE GOES TO JURY TODAY

Denounced As A Sly "Gun Moll" By Prosecution

Tacoma, Wash., July 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Waley was defended as "just another fool woman" and denounced as a sly "gun moll" for the George Weyerhaeuser kidnapers in arguments that brought her "Lindbergh" trial near the jury 10 night.

"She came into the court room with her dress fastened under her arms with staples—a girl who has suffered and who has been on relief all her life," pleaded Defense Attorney John F. Dore.

She should be convicted as a warning to the underworld that people will not maintain kidnapping, argued United States Attorney J. Charles Dennis in the final address to the jury.

Federal Judge E. E. Cushman then adjourned court until tomorrow morning when the jury of ten men and two women will be instructed as to how to deal with the Lindbergh law and conspiracy charges against her.

The 10-year-old girl, cited softly as Dore's court appointed lawyer, denounced her convict husband, Harmon M. Waley, and William Edward Allen Mahan, fugitive brains of the $200,000 abduction.

A few hours previously Assistant United States Attorney Owen P. Hughes had charged her with attempting to hide behind the "Mormon religion" to escape punishment. He argued that she had sought refuge in the Mormon tenet that a wife was formerly subject to her husband's will, that Waley thus ruled her actions.

Dore said he would appeal the case as his own expense in the event Mrs. Waley was convicted.

Wiley Hughes bitterly attacked her for her story that she was an unwilling participant in the abduction of the 9-year-old timber heir, Mrs. Wiley looked on angrily.

Mrs. Waley's story had been that she took part only after she learned her husband, Harmon M. Waley, already was in jail and needed the fugitive, William Mahan, staged "brains" of the plot, had threatened death to everyone concerned if the "kidnapped" Waley pleaded guilty. He received 45 years.

The little victim, testifying yesterday as the government's star witness, failed to identify Mrs. Waley as a member of the gang. From photographs, he identified Waley and Mahan. He said, however, he once heard a woman's voice at the kidnap hideout house in Spokane.

Mrs. Waley's attorneys stated their case quickly after federal prosecutors had questioned her briefly but searchingly on her contention that she was an unwilling participant.

Parallel Parking

Citizens who have observed traffic conditions on the main business streets of the city will welcome the return to parallel parking and the abandonment of the angle parking plan. The city authorities have restored parallel parking with the idea of widening the traffic lane, an improvement much needed. The only angle parking in the business section heretofore will be on the square, where there is plenty of room for it.

The new parking plan is expected to improve the traffic conditions remarkably. While the motorist may experience some difficulty in "snaking out" of his parking place, enforcement of a time limit will keep the cars moving and should create enough vacant spots to serve all comers. There will be no more backing out into a traffic-crowded street, and the lanes for the movement of cars will be much wider. Angle parking could not be a success on narrow local streets.

A decided betterment of parking and traffic conditions has been noted the past few days. Police have kept at the job of educating the public to the new plan, and citizens are co-operating by keeping their cars within parking lines.

This is the kind of co-operation that will ultimately solve Jacksonville's traffic problems. An orderly observance of the reasonable rules that are imposed from time to time to meet the situation will give this city streets on which it is a pleasure to drive and parking conditions that will be convenient and pleasant for all.

Without Roll Call

Congressmen are evidently getting tired of being placed in hot spots. The recent passing of some important legislation without roll calls is evidence that men in Congress do not want to take responsibility for their action. There was a time when a Congressman would return to his home district and point with pride to his record.

But with legislation vital to labor and agriculture before Congress, some members consider it no longer safe to take a definite stand and vote their sentiments. Like the Pharisees of old, "they fear the people." Hence the passing of legislation without a record vote. Often there is an agreement between the opposing sides that there shall be no roll call.

Under this rule constituents cannot find out how their Congressman voted. They cannot hang anything on him in the next campaign. He has taken this action to protect himself against one side or the other in a controversy, which may be as hot in his home district as it is in Washington. But he has made his record so colorless that he is a man of straw, having no convictions.

'China's Sorrow'

The raging Yangtze river rolls thru several rich Chinese provinces at flood stage, spreading death and damage along its course. A lake hundreds of miles long and dozens of miles wide covers some of the richest land of central China. The behavior of this river is not new. The mighty stream is known as "China's Sorrow," a name which vividly describes its relation to the great population along its banks.

Every few years the river goes on a rampage. The people, with limited capital and engineering skill, cannot build levees of sufficient strength to control the stream, once it begins to flood. The waters destroy crops, kill and carry away farm animals, and often drown hundreds of human beings. In the wake of the flood come famine and pestilence, because sanitary conditions and food supplies are lacking in that unfortunate region.

But the river spreads over the land, having rich deposits of alluvial silt. The next year, if the floods do not come, the Chinese grow abundant crops. Human life and animal life flourish again where food is plentiful.

More babies are born to keep China's population teeming. Then the floods come and carry away a few hundred or a few thousand, and the circle of tragedy and prosperity is repeated. Such is the story of a people upon whose history nature is allowed to have full effect. China is not protected by intelligent planning from the natural laws. Although vast in population, the nation lives under conditions that would govern the most savage tribes. What real civilization could do for the Chinese is not known, for it has never been tried. Doubtless the money being spent every year in the United States on rivers and harbors and flood control would work wonders if it were spent on the rivers of China.

Society's Playhouse?

It is probably a good thing for the cause of art that Congress has voted a federal incorporation for a national theater. This organization, a private institution dedicated to "art for art's sake," will strive to present drama of the highest type and to stir up new interest in the theater among the public generally.

Such aims are of a type that no one can fail to commend; yet it is with a faint feeling of misgiving that one reads that the incorporators are to quote a press dispatch—"45 social leaders."

If a national theater enlists the aid of working dramatists, producers and actors, it can be an excellent thing. If, however, it merely serves as an excuse for making a handful of social leaders think that they are being useful and artistic, it can be pretty dismal. It is to be hoped that this latter pitfall will be avoided.

Just a Scrap of Paper

You can begin to understand the cynical way in which the governments of the world signed the Kellogg anti-war treaty by meditating on the furore which arose when Emperor Haile Selassie of Abyssinia asked the United States to protest Italy's projected violation of the treaty.

Here we have, seemingly, an open and shut case. Having renounced war as an instrument of national policy, Italy—for reasons which Italians find good and sufficient—proposes to use war as such an instrument. The United States is asked to remind Italy of that renunciation—and instantly there is a sensation in all the capitals of Europe!

It is pretty clear that the governments which signed this treaty never had the slightest notion of abiding by its spirit. If they had, would they be dismayed by the thought that now, when it might be of some use, someone is actually thinking of reminding them of it?

The people of America are born to overcome, not to be pampered, not to be made secure, but to carve, to make their own way to conquer.

This is a time of discouragement and disillusion in which, with a sort of slave psychology, men would rather be safe than free.
—Herbert Hoover.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

To the Editor of the Jacksonville Daily Journal
Beverly Hills, Calif., July 12—It looks like you don't make a good witness or committee member in a Washington investigation unless you call each other a liar or insult the president of the U. S.

Chairman of the committee: "Mr. Jones, we are led to believe you know something about the matter we are investigating."

Mr. Jones: "You are a liar, and the president of the United States is a horse thief."

Call the next witness.
Mr. Smith, what do you know of lobbying about holding companies?"
Mr. Smith: "You are all liars, and the president is fooling you. His mother was a Stalin and his father was a Mussolini and he is taking the money away from us to send to Hitler."

And this goes on day after day.

Wanderers Get Away with Game, But for Brief Time

A band of Gypsies traveling in two high-powered automobiles worked a losing game on Robert Leggett, local blacksmith, yesterday morning. The Gypsies had Leggett do some work on their trailer, then paid him with his own money.

The blacksmith received the dollar he charged, all right, but just after the hand pulled out he discovered they had taken $3 from his pocket. He was soon in communication with the sheriff's office.

Deputies overtook the Gypsies a short distance east of Jacksonville. There was a brief argument which the officers won. They got back Leggett's money and had the satisfaction of seeing the Gypsies disappearing over the eastern horizon at a high rate of speed.

Several Gypsy men asked Leggett to repair the trailer on one of their cars and it was while he was doing the work that one of them picked his pocket.

DOWN WAVERLY WAY

Centennial Year Sketches of Morgan County's Second City

By MRS. GEO. F. ROMANO

One of Waverly's most honored citizens in early days was Mr. Newton Cloud. Born in North Carolina, he removed from Kentucky with his parents in 1827, becoming a Methodist preacher the same year.

He served as minister for fifty years and for sixteen successive terms he represented his county in the Illinois State Legislature beginning in 1830. In 1844-45 he was clerk of the House and in 1846 speaker of the House. In 1847 he was president of the Illinois Democratic Convention held in Springfield in 1860 he received 65 votes and his opponent 157.

Rev. Cloud served two years upon the Canal Commission and was instrumental in establishing the State School for the Deaf at Jacksonville. Rev. Cloud died in 1877. His burial in the old Rogers cemetery just west of town was one of the largest ever held in this part of the state.

David E. Gibson came to Central Illinois in 1828 settling northeast of Waverly, and later became a citizen of the town. While a very young man he was much interested in the "steam wagon" proposed to run over the prairie from Springfield to St. Louis. He helped survey the route and broke a furrow about ninety miles long from near Springfield to a point near Woodburn, Macoupin county. This furrow was to furnish a visible indication for the course the machine should run. Mr. Gibson claimed to have broken the longest continuous furrow of any man on earth. The machine started out alright but ran into the ground at the first soft spot and so ended the famous undertaking to navigate our prairies with a "steam wagon."

Mr. Gibson went in 1832 to St. Clair county to purchase seed corn for which he paid $1 per bushel and sheathed it himself. On a trip to Jacksonville he was overtaken by a heavy snow storm. As night approached he thought himself near the end of his journey and discovered to his amazement that he was just one and a half miles from his own home. He had been riding round in a circle all day.

Quite close to the center of things in Waverly stands a quaint old-fashioned house. A story and a half with many paneled windows sheltered by green blinds it nestles beneath three tall oaks that rear their heads high above the little town.

In the yard are old-fashioned sweet honeysuckle and purple wisteria whose blossoms fill the air with sweetness and remind us of our grandmothers and great grandmothers who planted those as also the yellow Scotch roses that grow in rich profusion.

Inside are old style rockers, hand-made fireplaces and a black walnut Governor Windsor desk and bookcase. Quaint oval picture frames grace the walls and a few old-fashioned silver pitchers remind one of olden times.

Among the family records there is a Spanish will dated 1761 and a bill of sale dated 1794 also a soldier's pass from Andersonville prison hospital dated Nov. 13, 1864 and signed by W. W. Wenz, Capt.

As the years slip by, these, with other treasures in many homes in Waverly, are held dearer by the owners. Surely it does us no harm to stop a moment in our busy lives and give thought to those who bore the burdens in the early days of this community.

Alumni Quarterly Issued This Month

Illinois College Activities Reviewed in Attractive and Interesting Way

The July edition of the Illinois College Alumni Quarterly featuring the commencement exercises, has just been published. The program of events which marked the closing of the one hundred and sixth year is interestingly reviewed with many cuts of notable alumni and commencement speakers. The frontispiece is a beautiful picture of the impressive academic procession forming at the gate to proceed to the church. President H. C. Jaquith's report showing enthusiasm and confidence in the future is of general interest.

An article concerning former president C. W. Barnes and his success as head of the Chicago Sunday Evening Club, also a resume of Dr. Everett Dean Martin, '04 holds the attention of the reader. Dr. Martin's latest publication, entitled "Farewell to Revolution" and is a "critical and realistic" account of these movements in history, given in a spirit as free as possible from dogma or political and economic propaganda. "Mr. Martin's book is the reproduction of a voice out of nineteenth-century liberalism, a voice crying in a wilderness not understood; indeed but vaguely apprehended, as seen through a mist." Other articles giving brief accounts of faculty news and class reunions, athletics, alumni activities are fine glimpses of college life. Growing interest is being shown by graduates, former students and friends in this outstanding college periodical.

RYE FARMERS SHOW INTEREST IN LAWS

Carrollton.—Several farmers in this locality are much interested in the rye program which will be considered in Washington July 13 at a conference with AAA officials. Information has been given out by Farm Adviser George Hunt. Growers from this and other Illinois counties will be represented at this conference by Rudolph Hackelmann of Havana.

The levying of a processing tax on rye and formulation of an adjustment program similar to that in effect on wheat are among the suggestions. Heretofore rye has not been considered in the class of surplus crops, but owing to a very short production last year, being only about one-third of what is predicted this year, Illinois farmers have almost doubled their rye acreage.

Indees Win Game From Ramblers

Ray Zell Allows Only Two Blows But Indies Find Scoring Tough

Ray Zell gave the Ramblers only two hits at the high school diamond last night in a Tw-Y-Light league game, but the Smith Indies found scoring difficult, despite their nine hits. They punched over three runs to win from the Ramblers 3-1 in a tight battle.

The Indies got their first run in the second frame, on Coleman's double followed by Cooney's single. They got another in the third when Webb was hit by a pitched ball, went to second without a play, and scored on Coleman's single. Jerry Burkery scored the third run when he pilfered home after getting a walk, stealing second, and going to third on an error.

The only run scored off Zell was the result of an infield single, a stolen base and a wild pitch, and a play at the plate which failed to connect.

Tigers Defeat Senators 2-1

Washington, July 12.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers again worked their favorite trick of coming from behind to victory today as they rallied after a bad start to turn back the Senators 2 to 1 and hold their place in the American league pennant race a game and one half behind the league leading Yankees.

It was Detroit's twelfth victory in the last 13 games and gave the Tigers the series here 2-1. "General" Alvin Crowder who went from the Senators to the Tigers last season, bested Ed Linke in a keenly contested mound duel to gain his tenth victory of the season. He gave only five hits, four of which came in the first two innings. Linke, giving one of the best performances recently, was touched for seven blows after limiting last year's league champions to one hit in the first four innings.

Alvin (Jack) Powell, Washington center fielder, was forced to leave the game in the fifth due to a recurrence of the sciatic nerve injury which he suffered several weeks ago.

Governor Praises Doying for Work

Harrisburg Reporter Aids Disclosures; Official Takes Prompt Action

The Editor and Publisher in its July 6th issue said:

"The enterprise of George E. Doying, member of the International News Service, Harrisburg, Pa., staff assigned to Capitol Hill, was rewarded this week by executive recognition. On June 28, Governor George H. Earle voiced praise for an I.N.S. disclosure that Chairman Paul O. Sunday and A. C. Hunsburger of the milk control board were paid $750 each during the month and a half the Senate withheld confirmation of their nominations. Doying dug up the facts and told the governor's secretary. In half an hour the governor had made a personal investigation and dismissed the two men."

Doying is a son of George E. Doying, Washington, D.C., newspaper and magazine writer, and has advanced rapidly in reportorial work. He was formerly employed in Springfield and Cleveland.

He is the third generation of the Doying family to follow the newspaper business. His grandfather, the late George E. Doying, was publisher of the Jacksonville Courier for a number of years.

Morgan Aces Jump On Oilers 14 To 4

Stainforth Allows Three Hits As Mates Pummel Two Oilers Flingers

Cracking down hard Stainforth held the Wells Oilers to three hits while his Morgan Aces team-mates pummeled two opposing hurlers hard for a 14 to 3 victory in a Tw-Y-Light league game at Nichols Park yesterday. Hillis joined the home run parade when he slammed out a four-bagger with on man on base.

Blanked in the first frame, the Morgan Aces turned on the heavy guns in their half of the second when Claude Jewsbury hit a triple and Hillis followed with his circuits mash. Herschel Heaton collected a double before the shelling was over for the inning, netting the Aces four tallies.

The fireworks cracked again in the fourth when Jewsbury collided with his second triple of the day, scoring one man. Four singles completed the depredations for the frame and caused the withdrawal of Holtzschlag, starting other pitcher.

Home runs by Frank Crosetti and Lou Gehrig got the Yankees off to a good start and they never let up as Charley Ruffing and Monte Pearson battled on almost even terms under the broiling sun which beat down on the pitching mound. Ruffing gave up nine hits and Pearson ten, but both were fairly effective except for the two Yankee clouts into the bleachers.

Crosetti's swat, his seventh of the season, tied the score in the third inning after the Indians had scored in the second on a pass to Bruce Campbell and singles by Hal Truex and O'Dell Hale. Gehrig poled home No. 12 in the next inning after Ben Chapman had singled and that gave the Yanks a lead they never lost.

The victory was the eighth for the league leaders in 13 encounters with Cleveland and it was the Indians' tenth loss in their last eleven games. By lasting the full distance Pearson became the second Cleveland pitcher to go the route in that eleven game stretch.

Jimmy Dykes' Boys Drive Out Seventeen Hits Off Offerings of 4 Pitchers

Boston, July 12.—(P)—Jimmy Dykes' third-place Chicago White Sox placed four Boston pitchers for a 13-2 victory today to square the four-game series. The visitors slugged out the handsome total of 17 hits but clinched the game in the opening frame, when they pounded Joe Cascarella, latest addition to the Cronin pitching corps, for three runs.

The slugging Zeke Bonura led the White Sox attack with a pair of doubles and as many singles, which drove in four runs. Manager Dykes accounted for four more with his two-bagger and single.

Cascarella lasted for an inning and a third,

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JO DARLEN, finishing her first year in college, learns her father is out of work. Jo gets a job as bookkeeper in a small marine supply store. She is engaged to BRET PAUL, athlete star. DOUGLAS MARSH, handsome, wealthy, comes to the store to buy equipment for the summer colony he is establishing at Great Lake. Jo works overtime, assisting with the order, and Marsh asks her to have dinner with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V

AS Jo sat at the lunch counter endeavoring to justify the sudden turn of events which had given her, all in one day, a new job and a dinner engagement with a millionaire bachelor, her woman's mind shot into the practical question, "What shall I wear?" She had not yet even unpacked her trunk at the Fendals apartments, and it was now almost 3 o'clock. Hurriedly she finished her coffee, wondering whether her blue dress-silk would be all right. She hadn't worn it since the last sorority dance and it had been on its hanger in her wardrobe trunk ever since. And her dark blue slippers—if she remembered rightly she had stepped into a puddle in front of the gymnasium that night, and never cleaned them. It was the last dance of the campus season, and she had simply tossed everything into her trunk, thinking she would take them out at home.

When she reached the Fendals she ordered her trunk sent up at once, and when it arrived she hurriedly examined the clothes in question. Thank Heaven, the slippers could be made presentable by a little scrubbing with a stiff brush! And her silk jacket which would make the blue dress correct for dinner wear was presentable enough. But the blue dress-silk needed pressing.

"I won't have time to send the dress out," Jo thought. "And besides, it would cost too much in my state of affairs."

So out came the little electric iron and cord she had used at school; and in the wall of the kitchenet was, luckily, an ironing board which folded down for use. Jo felt to work with a will, and in a short time the blue silk was hanging in presentable folds on a hanger suspended from the light fixture. Her best stockings she found ready to wear—and when it came to underthings, well, Jo had always been extravagant. This was one of the times when she was glad for this extravagance.

SHE was interrupted twice in her preparations. The first was by a special delivery letter from her father. As Jo read it she found it hard to keep back the tears.

"Mother sends her love and so do I—Dad."

If Jo had owned the money for a ticket to Weston she might have started immediately for home—just to try to comfort her mother and father, to make them see that, as far as Jo Darlen was concerned, they were still the finest and most lovable persons on earth. Poor Dad! There was so much his letter didn't say, so much that came farthest to Jo without words.

"I must write them first thing in the morning and tell them I have good growth. The fields were heading the rain, which will greatly facilitate the growth of corn. Chinch bugs are reported in some places, but the damage from them is not great. At present they are the only insects giving any trouble."

The rush of farm work which is so heavy now is due to the retarded conditions caused by a wet June. There is now practically no limit to what farmers have to do, but the rush will last only a few weeks.

SONG OF KATYDID ALARMS CREDULOUS

Superstitious Persons Count Days Until Frost

Katydid have begun their nocturnal song in Morgan county. To the superstitious that means something, for according to the old saying, it will frost six weeks from the time the first katydid sits up and takes her first vocal lesson.

One Jacksonville citizen reports the first song of the katydid was on the air Wednesday night. Thursday night there was a full chorus by these monotonous entertainers.

According to the ancient superstition that means frost during the first week of September. But katydids are harmless little creatures and who knows but what they have noticed the plight of the farmers—a late corn crop and every minute needed to mature it before frost. The katydids may show their true colors this year and lay aside their superstitious habit of chirping at the wrong time.

Oats Crop Good

The crop of oats in the county is reported to be the best in years. Some oats have been out, and farmers are expecting a yield of fifty to sixty bushels per acre. While this section is somewhat too far south for the best oats, the crop this year promises to be something unusual. The heads are well-filled, and the oat kernels are large. The grain will thus be of good quality. Farmers are much pleased over the prospect.

Corn, though planted late on account of wet weather, is making a

When the clerk telephoned that Mr. Marsh was in the lobby Jo was ready.

"Dear Daughter: Your Mother has just shown me your letter in which you say that you are not coming home, but are going to find a job for the summer. I wish I might have had the chance to explain to you face to face the predicament I find myself in, but perhaps it was best that you know before returning. It's probably just as well that you did not come home, for I must confess that right now we don't feel very gay, and I'm afraid the house would be no place for a young girl."

"I have a feeling you're a working girl now," he said.

"You're right, Bret. I got the job. Forty dollars a month!" Bret laughed, and Jo added, "I don't see anything funny about that."

"I was laughing with relief," Bret explained. "You won't get to be a rich woman on $40 a month—so there's a chance for me, after all. How about letting me take you to the University Inn for dinner, and then maybe a movie?"

"Oh, Bret, I—I can't."

"What? Got another man already now that you're out in the world?" "No, I—I have to do some extra work for Mr. Brown."

"Mr. Brown?"

"My new boss. You see, he hasn't had anybody in the office for months and things are in a mess. He has a big order coming up and I have to help him."

"Gosh, I'm sorry, darling. Make sure he pays you for overtime!" Jo managed a laugh. "I'll try, and you will call me again, won't you, Bret?"

"Nobody can keep me from it. But you'd better keep tomorrow night open. I may have to leave for Placid Beach day after tomorrow. I got a letter from them today, and they may wire me at any moment."

"I'll be expecting you tomorrow night then," Jo said.

When she replaced the receiver she stood staring at the telephone. Why had she lied to Bret so glibly? "It wasn't a lie, really," she tried to tell herself. "It really is helping Mr. Brown on a big order." But as that thought passed through her mind she had to laugh bitterly at herself. "You lied to Bret. Deliberately. Tomorrow you've got to tell him the truth."

A glance at the clock stirred her out of her uncomfortable thoughts. Six-thirty—just time for a shower and getting into her clothes.

But when the clerk telephoned that Mr. Marsh was in the lobby, Jo was ready. Marsh was standing by the door of the automatic elevator when Jo descended, hoping that her dress wouldn't smell of recent ironing. Smilingly, he drew back the door and exclaimed, "You looked like an angel descending to earth! I do hope the angel enjoys her evening with the mortals."

Jo laughed. "I'm sure she will."

At the Fendals curb was Douglas Marsh's sleek black roadster. Its smart hood long and streamlined.

"I left the top down," he explained, helping her into the cushions. "I remembered your hair was the kind that would be all the more charming for a little blow."

The car moved noiselessly away from the curb and into the traffic. "There's a new place opened this week," Marsh told her. "It's called the Olympic Bowl—we can have dinner there, and dance, if you like. Like to try it, or do you have some favorite rendezvous?"

Jo shook her head. "I don't know the town at all. You see, I've been here only one winter, and that was spent pretty close to the university."

"So I'm out with a freshman girl!" Douglas Marsh laughed pleasantly.

"I'm afraid I've graduated as a freshman," Jo told him. "It looks as if the rest of my education will be in the School of Experience."

"Not a bad school either," Marsh assured her. "My father was a graduate, and he knew more in a minute than I'll know all my life. Shall it be the Olympic Bowl, then?"

Jo nodded. "I'd like very much to go there."

The sleek roadster brought them there in quick time. The green-uniformed doorman saluted Marsh as if he were a major-general; and when they were inside, the band waiter, with that sure instinct of head-waiters, sized up Marsh with a glance and led them to an excellent table which gave Jo a full view of the dancers and diners.

Marsh's gaze traveled about the lounge room with its quiet wall drapes and its clever indirect lighting. "Not bad at all," he said. "And that music is inviting. But suppose we start with cocktails. Would you like me to order?"

"Please do."

She did not say that she had never before been out with a man who could order a dinner.

CROP AVERAGE IN STATE THIS YEAR LARGER

Exceeds 1934 Acreage But Less Than 1928-1932

Average
The total acreage of important Illinois crops for harvest this year is about 12 percent larger than the average of these crops in 1934 but still eight percent below the 1928-1932 average, according to the July 1 survey of the Illinois and Federal Departments of Agriculture. The corn and oats acreage are still well below average but both soybean and alfalfa acreage are the latest on record. On a slightly increased acreage winter wheat production is estimated larger than average. Prospects for spring wheat and barley yields are above average but planted acreage was greatly reduced. Early hay yields were good with quality reduced by frequent rains. Apple and peach production will be above average. Pastures continue excellent.

Illinois corn acreage increased six percent over 1934. Above normal and frequent rainfall greatly interfered with planting. About 41 percent of the intended acreage was planted June 1, 77 percent June 15, and 87 percent June 29. Stands are generally good but growth is variable, ranging from four inches to knee high July 1 with late planting just emerging. Wet fields delayed cultivation, resulting in much weedy corn.

The acreage of spring down small grains continue low. In spite of a 25 percent increase over 1934 the oats acreage is the lowest since 1922. Wet weather prevented planting the intended acreage. Prospective yields are above the 10-year average in the important up-state districts. Spring wheat is growing on the smallest acreage on record while barley acreage is the smallest since 1911. Indicated yields per acre of both crops are better than average.

Winter wheat acreage for harvest is three percent larger than 1934. The crop has been handicapped by too much rain, standing water on low ground, rust infection, and some lodging. Harvesting was well along in the south and progressing in central part of the state by July 1. The crop is about two weeks later than the 1934 crop. A condition of 78 percent indicates a yield of 16.5 bushels per acre compared with 64 percent condition a year ago and harvested yield of 16 bushels.

Weather conditions favored above average yields of all hay crops. Total tonnage is expected to exceed that harvested in any year since 1927. Frequent rains damaged quality of first cuttings, especially of alfalfa. Clover and timothy thinned by 1934 drought recovered better than expected. Supplies of old hay on farms are low. Soybeans and cowpea hay acreage will contribute heavily to total hay acreage this year. Pasture condition is 12 points above average.

Soybeans are up to good stands on an average 55 percent greater than last year's record high acreage. The crop is later than usual with only 67 percent of the crop planted July 1. The cowpea acreage equals that of 1934.

All tree fruit production is above the 1928-1932 average. Wet weather hindered spraying. Scab, blotch and rust are lowering quality and quantity of commercial apples. The June drop was heavy. A fine quality peach crop, double the 5-year average production is expected. Both peaches and grapes promise above average production. Acreage and production of potatoes are nearly up to average. Feed grain production will be well above last year's small volume but below the 1928-1932 average. Corn production is estimated at 30 percent below average. Oats 8 percent below and barley less than one percent of average. All wheats production is forecast at 4 percent less than average. Reserves of corn and oats on farms are usually low, with wheat reserves about average.

JAIL PAROLEE TAKEN TO MO. TO FACE CHARGE

Hold Man Sought By Local Police; May Face Death Sentence

Bloomington, Ill., July 12.—(AP)—Randy Reeves, 25, was returned to Palmyra, Mo., tonight to face a charge for which, if he is convicted, State's Attorney Walter G. Stillwell of Marion county said he would ask the death penalty.

Reeves was arrested here in connection with an attack on a 12-year-old Hannibal, Mo., girl, and Stillwell said he had 25 witnesses waiting to testify against the man. Reeves, who denied the charge left the jail in custody of Stillwell, Sheriff Arch Leonard, and Police Chief Maurice Shay of Hannibal. The officials said citizens of Hannibal were "very warm" over the attack. Criminal assault is a capital crime in Missouri.

Reeves told officials he was a parolee from a Georgia prison farm.

Atlanta, July 12.—(AP)—Randy Reeves, arrested in Bloomington, Ill., for authorities in Hannibal, Mo., connection with an alleged attack on a girl, is also wanted by Georgia authorities.

The prison commission office here said a warrant had been issued for Reeves' arrest by Harvey Goode of Dallas, Ga., to whom Reeves was paroled May 13 of this year.

Reeves was serving a two to three year sentence for burglary at a high-way convict camp at Dallas.

Reeves is the man sought by local police here last Saturday. He was reported aboard a Washburn freight train, and although local officers nabbed one suspect Reeves was not taken into custody.

PENSION BILL INTERESTS MANY

Numerous Applicants For Place On Board Until They Find Doesn't Pay

Much interest has been aroused in regard to the so-called "Old Age Pension" passed by the recent Legislature. The bill provides that no pensions shall be payable until 1936, yet many people are already making plans for spending the money. There is no certainty that there will be any money available with which to make any payments even in 1936 it is reported. Certainly no pensions can be paid in 1935.

The act provides that the County Judge shall appoint three persons to serve as the Old Age Security Board. Judge Wm. E. Thomson stated that the act specifically provides that the members of the board shall receive no compensation for their services. Many have already applied for a position on the board, but when informed that it means a lot of trouble, time, grief and no pay, the position is not desired.

Judge Thomson further stated that apparently the bill was drawn and passed in a great hurry; that many of the legislators voting for it in its present shape, supposedly, did so on the theory of "passing the buck," and that it contains several provisions which will probably be amended before the bill takes effect. It is generally understood that the Governor will have this done at a special session in case there is money available with which to pay any pensions. No action can be taken until these matters are definitely settled.

The law plainly states that "in no case shall the relief given to any person exceed one dollar per day." The amount is supposed to be based upon the actual necessity of the person; it may be less, but can not be more than one dollar per day. And even then, any allowance made by the local Board would be subject to the supervision of the Department of Public Welfare.
